

KIARA PELISSIER

Haystack is the birthplace of my desire to work with glass and continues to nurture this desire for expression through a variety of materials. With every visit, of which there have been seven so far, my mind is opened and I breathe easier. I grow to understand myself better and my goals become clearer. It is a place that spawns hope and possibility. My stomach flips as I arrive and again as I leave.

Haystack is an energy, a people, and a place. It is the reinforcement of one's love for making, the cheerleader when you feel defeated, the best friend who listens, and the parent who watches. It is an oasis for Makers. Haystack makes you feel good about who you are and what you have chosen to do with your life.
